POPE SOON TO GIVE CARDINAL'S HAT TO ARCHBISHOP FARLEY

John D. Crimmins Returns from Europe and Announces that He Is Confident the Pope Will Make Appointment Before the Year Is Out.

He Describes the Interview Between the Pope and Seth Low, During Which the Former Mayor Asked the Holy Father to Bless Him.

John D. Crimmins, accompanied by his daughter, reached New York o-day on the Deutschland with the message that Pope Pius X. will make Archbishop Farley a cardinal before the year is out. He also told of an in teresting scene in which ex-Mayor Low and the Pope were the principals.

esting scene in which ex-Mayor Low and the Pope were the principals.
"I have positive assurance," said Mr. Crimmins, "that Archbishop Farley SIX FAURITES be made a Cardinal before the year is out. I cannot tell you how r will be made a Cardinal before the year is out. I cannot tell you how I know this, but I am certain of it. His Holiness was most favorably impressed with our Archbishop and has decided to place further and greater trusts in his hands. The Pope realizes that this is the second largest diocese in the world and mat it is entitled to a cardinalate.

"In all I had four interviews with His Holiness. Mayor Low, his wife and myself were introduced by Archbishop Farley at the first conference.

"Mrs. Low had brought along some beads for the Pope to b - 3 10 several of her Catholic friends in America. This little fact brought tears to the eyes of the Pontiff as he blessed the beads.

"Mayor Low and myself were walking away, when Mr. Low turned suddenly and went back to the Pope and asked the Holy Father to bless him. This affected the Pope perceptibly, and there were tears in both his eyes and those of Mr. Low. "In a later audience the Pope told me that Mr. Low was a great man that he must be a good Christian man, and that New York should be proud of him as a citizen. His Holiness took a great liking to Mr. Low." Speaking of politics, Mr. Crimmins said:

"I am for Parker, and I am sure he is the best man we could secure I believe he will be nominated, and that means election this year."
